DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Hood et al (5,975,081).

Claim 1 - the device as a whole is a wellness apparatus, element -26- is a chamber forming device (living unit), element -46- is a control device, elements -74- are biosensors and the system is directly controlled based on the sensed parameters, column 18 lines 40-44 and claim 1 are examples.

Claim 2 - temperature is sensed, column 22, lines 39-52.

Claim 3 - the system is a closed loop system, column 25, lines 1-20.

Claims 4 and 5 - the biosensors are connected to a control device via a radio link, applicant's attention is invited to element -817-.

Claim 6 - the humidity of the O₂ content is considered to be a composition of fluidic media.

Claim 7 - pressure in the chamber is controlled, column 10, lines 30-45.

Claim 8 - acoustic and light is controlled, column 22, lines 39-52.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 9/17/2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. On page 6 the applicant argues that "the invention of the instant application defines an accommodation room in the sense of an isolation room in which "non-transportable unit or room" a person may stay for a continuous/steady period of time" and the device of Hood relates to a transportable life support system. Further Hood is not configured for a sustained, durable period of time as is the subject matter of the invention of the instant application, lines bridging pages 8 and 9.

The claims as presently presented require a "wellness apparatus" comprising "a living unit", no other limitations relating to the size of the device or the time period in which a subject is in the device. The applicant's specification does not specifically limit by definition the size or shape of the "wellness apparatus" or "living unit". The specification sets forth only non-limiting examples. In the instant case the "living unit" of Hood receives a person which is all that is required by the applicant's claim language, no further size limitations are set forth in the applicants claims.

The applicant further argues the examiner used a hindsight interpretation of Hood et al to meet the claim limitations (an accommodation room, isolation room), page 9. The rejected claims do not contain any limitations directed to an accommodation room or isolating room) Hood et al clearly teaches a chamber(living unit)without needing any teaching from the applicants invention, no size or shape limitations have been presented in the instant claims other than the device must be capable of receiving a person, Hood et al is clearly capable of receiving a person.

The applicant further argues that "No indications can be found in Hood et al. in which a persons wellness is a priority" The examiner believes the Hood et al is totally directed to the wellness of a person because it is a transportable life support system.

The applicant further argues that the applicant's invention can be installed in a private house, a hotel, or the like, such limitations are not present in the applicant's claims.

Further, the applicant argues figure 1 shows equipment in the "living room". It is the examiner's position that these limitations are not present in the claims. Again, the size of the "living unit" is not set forth in the claims or positively limited by definition in the applicant's specification.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
